

Gloria E. Martinez

With over 20 years of professional experience, Gloria is dedicated to fostering growth in housing, small business, and community development. Beginning her career in housing and community development, she played a key role in developing affordable homes for workforce families and seniors. As the Economic Vitality Manager for the County of Ventura since 2020, she manages the county's Economic Vitality Strategic Plan and has overseen the distribution of $30 million in business grants. She is passionate about connecting businesses with resources and enhancing stakeholder collaboration to drive regional economic growth.