

Jill Scott Bio

Jill Scott is a seasoned real estate and development professional with 25 years of experience in both the public and private sectors. As the Real Estate Manager for the City of Santa Rosa, she recently led the complex multi-agency acquisition of the Southeast Greenway—Santa Rosa's "Central Park"—a transformative project that will bring 1.2 linear miles of open natural space, trails, recreation, affordable housing, and connectivity to the city. With a strong foundation in economic development, Jill has spearheaded initiatives in property acquisition, right-of-way management, portfolio oversight, and large-scale development projects. She has successfully managed diverse property assets, negotiated complex transactions, and implemented strategies to optimize municipal and private holdings. Jill collaborates with government agencies, businesses, and community stakeholders to drive impactful projects that enhance communities. Holding a bachelor's degree in business and a California real estate broker's license, she brings a comprehensive understanding of real estate transactions, policy, and development strategies. She is passionate about leveraging her expertise to mentor, guide, and shape the future of real estate and economic development.
